LIBERTY LOAN FACTS

The first Liberty Loan, offered May 14, 1917, consisted of two billion $1-2 per cent United States government bonds maturing in 10 years.

The second Liberty Loan, offered October 1, 1917, consists of three billion or more 4 per cent United States government bonds maturing in 25 years, but callable by the government on any interest date after the tenth year.

That is the story in a nutshell. By keeping in mind the simple facts regarding the Liberty Loan as given above we avoid confusion.

However, as the newspapers have contained a good many articles about seven billion and eleven billion dollar loans, we append for the further information of speakers the following:

The first act authorized a total issue of $5,538,945,450 in 3-1/2 per cent bonds. It also authorized the issue of two billion short-time Treasury certificates of indebtedness, the character of these being quite distinct from the bonds.

The second act authorizes a total issue of $7,638,945,450 in 4 per cent bonds and cancels all unused 3-1/2 per cent bonds authorized by the first act.

Hence this act authorizes in fact four billion bonds over and above those authorized by the first act. The second act also authorized the issue of four billion certificates. Provision is also made for two billion war-savings certificates, but regarding these plans have not yet been perfected.

The bonds are sold direct from the United States Treasury to the people. There is an appropriation of one-half of 1 per cent for expenses for rent, clerk hire, postage, printing, etc., and the engraving of bonds; but no commission, brokerage, or profits are allowed. Bankers are contributing their services gratis.

On all bonds of the first issue deliveries began in September.

It is fully expected that definitive bonds of this new loan in denominations up to and including $1,000 will be ready for delivery beginning October 15 or earlier, and that definitive bonds will be ready for delivery against all subscriptions as soon as allotments and final payments have been made.

SECOND LIBERTY LOAN.

Bearing interest from Nov. 15, 1917. Due Nov. 15, 1942. Redeemable at the option of the United States, at par and accrued interest, on and after Nov. 15, 1927. Interest payable May 15 and Nov. 15. Authorized by an act of Congress approved Sept. 24, 1917. Offered for subscription in Department Circular No. 20, dated Oct. 1, 1917, to which reference is made for full information concerning the bonds and this offering, and from which the statements on this page are summarized. Copies of said circular may be obtained from the Treasury Department or through any Federal Reserve Bank.

Denominations—Coupon and registered bonds, $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000; and registered bonds of $50,000 and $100,000.

Exempt as to principal and interest from all taxation by the United States, any state, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority, except (a) estate or inheritance taxes, and (b) United States graduated additional income taxes (commonly known as surtaxes). The interest on an amount of bonds and certificates authorized by said act the principal of which does not exceed in the aggregate $5,000, owned by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation, shall be exempt from the taxes provided for in clause (b) above.

Conversion—Upon the terms and conditions stated in said circular into higher rate bonds if and when higher rate bonds are next issued during the war.

Applications must reach the Treasury Department, Washington, a Federal Reserve Bank or branch thereof, or some incorporated bank or trust company within the United States (not including outlying territories and possessions) on or before the close of business Oct. 27, 1917, subject to the right reserved by the Secretary of the Treasury to close the subscription at any earlier date.

Terms of Payment: 3 per cent, with application. 15 per cent, on Nov. 15, 1917. 40 per cent, on Dec. 15, 1917. 40 per cent, on Jan. 15, 1918 (with accrued interest on both deferred installments).

Payment in full of any subscription for an amount of bonds not in excess of $1,000 at face value, without interest, may be made with the application, if the subscriber pays in which case prompt delivery of a bond or bonds dated and bearing interest from Nov. 15, 1917, will be made. Except in such cases payment for the amount allotted can only be completed on Nov. 15, and with accrued interest, on Dec. 15 and Jan. 15, previous installments having been duly paid.

Allotment—Subscriptions for $3,000,000,000 of these bonds are invited, the right being reserved to allot additional bonds up to one-half the amount of any over-subscription. Every subscriber for an amount of bonds not in excess of $1,000 will receive the full amount of bonds subscribed for. Other applications are received subject to allotment.

Delivery—Bonds as described in the circular will be delivered promptly upon completion of payments.

Price, 100 per cent, and accrued interest.

The Mormon church in Salt Lake announced that $250,000 of its Liberty funds will be used to buy Liberty bonds.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Oct. 11.—Fervish irregularity characterized the active opening of the stock market today, various prominent issues falling under final quotations of yesterday while others made appreciable recoveries. Declines ran from one to two points in Union Pacific, Consolidated Gas, Colorado Fuel, Utah Copper, and United Cigars, with a drop of almost four points for Savage Arms. United States Steel was barely steady at the outset, but soon hardened with other equipments, Central Leather, Industrial Alcohol and Ohio Gas. Most early losses were retrieved before the end of the first half hour.

The list seemed in a fair way to extend early gains on an inquiry for industrials, but broke violently when railroads reflected renewed liquidation. St. Paul common and preferred and Baltimore & Ohio common and preferred recorded new low figures. Union Pacific lost 2 1/2, Canadian Pacific 2 1/2 and other investment shares of that group one to two points. Equipments reacted sharply and United States Steel fell two points to 19 1/2, with greater reversals in associated issues, coppers and specialties. Rallies of 1 to 1 1/2 points ensued at noon. Liberty bonds sold at 99.70 to 99.74.
